

No Surprises Act

You have the right to receive a “Good Faith Estimate” explaining how much your medical care will cost.

Under the law, health care providers need to give patients who don't have insurance or who are not using their insurance an estimate of the bill for medical items and services.

You have the right to receive a Good Faith Estimate explaining how much your health care will cost.

You can ask your health care provider and any other provider you choose, for a Good Faith Estimate before you schedule a service.

If you receive a bill that is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate, you can dispute the bill.

Make sure to save a copy or picture of your Good Faith Estimate. A Good Faith Estimate is not a contract, and the patient is not required to obtain services from the provider.
